

Energy purchasing

Choose the strategy that fits you.

It's not the quantity of energy but the moment of purchasing it that has the biggest influence on your energy tariff. Depending on various factors you choose the strategy that fits your organization. Take a high risk, or maybe not? Buy several years in advance, or preferably per quarter? Can I react quickly to fluctuating energy tariffs, or do I depend on a lot of internal stakeholders? We can help you in developing a purchasing strategy that fits you.

For organizations that "simply" want a keen price and realize that doing nothing can cost them money, we can offer them a connection to energy suppliers we have selected. You can connect if you make use of our basic energy benchmark package.

Specificaties

- Develop the strategy that fits your organization
- The moment is more important than the volume
- Connect to suppliers selected by us